The subject matters of claims 1, 7 and 13 do not appear to involve an inventive step in view of document 1 cited in the ISR. Document 1 (particularly, see paragraph [0015]) describes that the movement of an object identifies the position where the object has moved by an interface 7 and outputs music in accordance with the position. To process images for each frame is a well-known technique. To make the device a portable type is a matter that a person skilled in the art could design as required.

Therefore, a person skilled in the art could have easily arrived at the subject matter of claim

The subject matters of claims 2 and 8 do not appear to involve an inventive step in view of documents 1 and 2 cited in the ISR. Document 2 describes that music is generated by the sound source of a musical instrument in accordance with a position.

The subject matters of claims 3 and 9 do not appear to involve an inventive step in view of documents 1 and 3 cited in the ISR. Document 3 describes that music is generated by a musical scale in accordance with a position.

The subject matters of claims 4-6, 10-12, 15, 16, 20-22, 26 and 27 appear to involve an inventive step in view of the documents cited in the ISR. None of the documents describes that the identification of a position is performed by comparing image data among a plurality of specified frames, and a person skilled in the art could not have easily conceived of it.

The subject matter of claim 14 does not appear to involve an inventive step in view of document 1 cited in the ISR. Document 1 describes that an image is processed and displayed.

The subject matter of claim 17 does not appear to involve an inventive step in view of documents 1 and 4 cited in the ISR. It is a well-known technique as described in document 4 to

Reasoned statement under Rule 43bis.1(a)(i) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement provide an imaging means and a music output means in a mobile telephone device.

In a similar manner, the subject matter of claim 18 does not appear to involve an inventive step in view of documents 1, 2 and 4 cited in the ISR, and the subject matter of claim 19 does not appear to involve an inventive step in view of documents 1, 3 and 4 cited in the ISR.

The subject matters of claims 23 and 24 do not appear to involve an inventive step in view of documents 1 and 5 cited in the ISR. It is a well-known technique as described in document 5 to provide an imaging means and a music output means in a spectacle instrument. To provide a music output function by dispersing it outside is a matter that a person skilled in the art could have designed as required.
